✓ 1916 Amphysoma lignosum
From the basement of Ensigna Barnitory, Stanford
Campus, Santa Clara Co., Calif. Dec. 22, 1921.

✓ 1917-1919 Amphysoma lignosum
in caverns of old library mines, Stanford Campus, Santa Clara Co., Calif.
Dec. 31, 1921. (Holosphyridium)

✓ 1920 Nyctelia regilla ♀
In a drain in rear of Jordan Hall, Stanford
Campus, Santa Clara Co.,
Calif. Dec. 31, 1921. Stomach empty. Only a muddy liquid.
Many immature eggs in body.

V-914 } Hydromys regilla
V-915 }

Taken in Experiment Station, Stanford Campus,
Santa Clara Co., Calif., on Oct. 2nd 1921. These frogs were kept in a glass jar in the laboratory for several weeks and fed voraciously on many
sp. of flies and a few Anisobius californicus (Cynipidae). #6614 once drove a Diabrotica (Chrysomelidae) which was put into the jar and then poked the beetle off its tongue with its hands in a very comical way - with out even having a see its mouth on the beetle. They seem to use their hands habitually in cramming food into their mouths.

This is one of a pair of turtles brot to Stanford from the above locality by Dean Culver.
When first observed the ♂ was courting the ♀. He is said to have repeatedly come along side of her & slapped and kicked at her with his feet. After doing this for some time, both turtles went to the creek bank & swam well out into the stream (broad & shallow) & then they turned & came back to where they had started, where they were captured.

Dear Mr. Levin -

At last I can get a few minutes to write you. Regret that I have been unable to before now. I have been hoping to get to San Francisco again, but doubt that I can before we leave.

I am enclosing date and locality data for the live specimens. Also the voucher. Would like to know if there is anything that the Academy wishes me to keep a special lookout for in the Northwest. I believe I'd better not plan to do any extensive reptile collecting this summer, but can send in live specimens if they are desired. Are they worth as much from Oregon and Washington as from Utah? What was the value of the rattler's skin, so that I may settle with Duncan? I lost a Ford key while at the Academy last week & I'm curious to know where. It's of little value. Did it turn up in your office? If not I must have dropped it in front of the Museum. Thanking you for your prompt remittance, I am,

Sincerely yours,
Brighton C. Cain

"Fannie" & Joe send their regards.
